

SNELL & WILMER ATTORNEY RE-APPOINTED AS VISITING PROFESSOR AT NOTTINGHAM LAW SCHOOL

DENVER (April 13, 2009) — Snell & Wilmer L.L.P. attorney Neil Peck was recently appointed Visiting Professor at Nottingham Law School in Nottingham, England. Peck will serve a three-year term as Visiting Professor and will be a senior advisor to the Dean and Faculty on a variety of academic and professional issues. This is the third such consecutive appointment for Peck.

Peck has a long association with Great Britain, serving as Honorary British Consul in Denver from 1994 to 2000. He has also served on the Board of Directors of the Nottingham Law School for 11 years. Since 1990, Peck has been a member of the executive committee for the CPR International Institute for Conflict Prevention & Resolution.

“We are pleased to hear about Neil’s re-appointment as Visiting Professor at Nottingham Law School. We continue to have clients with international interests and Neil is a great asset to our international practice group. He always provides high-quality legal representation to our European clients or those doing business in England,” said Tim O’Neill, Administrative Partner at Snell & Wilmer’s Denver office.

Peck is of counsel at Snell and Wilmer and received his law degree from Yale Law School. He represents major American and international corporate clients in complex civil and criminal business litigation matters involving issues such as accounting fraud, foreign corrupt practices, environmental, natural resources, antitrust, and false advertising.
