

SNELL & WILMER PARTNER DAN WITTENBERG ACHIEVES KEY REGULATORY COMPLIANCE CERTIFICATION

DENVER (May 12, 2010) – Snell & Wilmer L.L.P. is pleased to announce that Partner Dan Wittenberg has attained certification as a Global Regulatory Affairs Compliance Professional (GRACP) from the Center for Professional Innovation & Education. The GRACP certification program is aimed at individuals who are involved with regulatory compliance issues in their professions, and geared at enhancing the professional knowledge and skill set necessary to work with domestic and international regulatory agencies in the life sciences arena. The curriculum ranges from conducting international clinical trials to filing compliant submissions with regulatory agencies.

“With increased scrutiny in the area of regulation both domestically and internationally, we congratulate Dan for investing the time and energy to attain this recognition” said Timothy O’Neill, administrative partner of Snell & Wilmer’s Denver office. “The firm continues to seek ways to better assist our life sciences clients.”

As a partner in the Denver office of Snell & Wilmer, Wittenberg concentrates his practice in representing medical device, pharmaceutical, biotech, life science, and consumer product companies in product liability litigation. He also counsels these businesses in risk management strategies, recalls and responding to regulatory agency inquiries. Wittenberg also has served as national counsel for major medical-device manufacturing concerns and regional counsel in mass tort cases. Additionally, he represents companies in commercial litigation and works with entities in technology transfer and intellectual property matters.
