FOURTH ANNUAL SOLAR POWER PROJECT DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE WELCOMES SNELL & WILMER PARTNER MARC SCHULTZ AS PRESENTER

PHOENIX (November 26, 2012) – Snell & Wilmer is pleased to announce that Marc Schultz, a partner in the Phoenix office, recently spoke at the Fourth Annual Solar Power Project Development Conference in San Diego, California, on November 13, 2012, on the subject of Investment Tax Credits (ITCs) and using both New Markets Tax Credits and ITCs in solar transactions (also known as the “twinning” of tax credits).

The conference focused on solar development opportunities, the use of solar power in Southern California, and the financing of solar transactions. The presenters at the conference included a wide range of folks who are involved in the solar industry including energy developers, financial analysts, tax equity investors, consultants, and attorneys.

Marc Schultz is a partner in the Tax Practice Group with particular experience in representing developers and investors in transactions using tax credit financing. Schultz’s practice is also concentrated in project finance, and complex transactions involving partnerships and limited liability companies, tax exempt entities, and real property. Schultz currently chairs Snell & Wilmer’s Tax Credit Finance Group and co-chairs both Snell & Wilmer’s Fund Formation and Investment Group and Snell & Wilmer’s Affordable Housing and Community Development Group.
