COASTLINE COMMUNITY COLLEGE FOUNDATION HONORS SNELL & WILMER AS COMMUNITY PARTNER WITH VISIONARY OF THE YEAR AWARD

ORANGE COUNTY (December 11, 2012) – Snell & Wilmer is pleased to announce that Coastline Community College Foundation (CCCF) recognized the firm as Community Partner and honored the firm with a Visionary of the Year Award at their annual holiday reception on Tuesday, December 4th.

The Visionary of the Year Award honorees demonstrate the strength to lead, have a vision to improve lives and pave the way for success in our community. The awards are also based on leadership achievements and community improvement efforts locally and afar.

“In addition to Snell & Wilmer’s dedication to providing superior client service and serving the community, they are also committed to the highest level of professional integrity,” said Dr. Loretta Adrian, President of Coastline Community College. “Their people, their values and their work here in Orange County made them a prime candidate for a Visionary of the Year award.”

For the past 15 years, CCCF has honored Visionary Award winners at an annual gala in the spring. At the 2011 gala, Snell & Wilmer partner M.C. Sungaila was honored with a Visionary Award. This year, CCCF celebrated the holidays and the opening of their new campus in Newport Beach by honoring two additional Visionaries. Snell & Wilmer was honored alongside Bruno Serato who is the owner of Anaheim White House, a restaurant that serves free dinners to homeless children every night.

Snell & Wilmer’s Orange County office has been recognized several times this year for their community involvement and pro bono work. In October, The California State Bar President’s Pro Bono Service Award was presented to Snell & Wilmer for their continued dedication to pro bono service in Southern California. Additionally, the Public Law Center of Orange County honored the firm in June with their Pro Bono Law Firm of the Year award. The board of directors at the Constitutional Rights Foundation of Orange County also recognized Snell & Wilmer as the Community Partner of the Year in October 2012.
