AURORA PUBLIC SCHOOLS FOUNDATION APPOINTS SNELL & WILMER ASSOCIATE KEVIN WALTON TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

DENVER (Dec. 12, 2018) – Snell & Wilmer is pleased to announce that Kevin Walton, commercial litigation associate in the firm's Denver office, has been appointed to the Board of Directors for the Aurora Public Schools Foundation for a four-year term. The Aurora Public Schools Foundation advances private, non-profit, public and philanthropic partnerships to develop resources for programs that drive innovation for nearly 40,000 students, 4,200 teachers and staff, and 61 schools in Aurora, Colorado. As an appointed member of its Board of Directors, Walton will promote the mission of the Aurora Public Schools Foundation by engaging others through community outreach, volunteer activities and fundraising events.

"The Aurora Public Schools Foundation has an exciting plan to cultivate community involvement that will enrich student opportunity," said Walton. "It is an honor to participate in an organization that helps students and schools succeed."

Since its inception in 1987, the Aurora Public Schools Foundation has served to foster support of education within the Aurora Public School District by bringing together teachers, business-people, parents, alumni and community leaders. The organization fulfills its mission by:

Kevin Walton

- Creating a college-bound culture throughout Aurora Public Schools through the support of College and Career Centers that provide high school students with critical information on post-secondary options, and tools to help them find and pursue their goals after graduation;
- Facilitating direct philanthropic support to classrooms, schools and programs across the district; and
- Stewarding a robust student scholarship program created through the generosity of individuals, families and organizations throughout our community.

In his legal practice, Walton presents clients spanning a broad range of industries, including oil and gas companies, financial institutions, secured and unsecured creditors, general contractors and other construction professionals. He focuses his practice in complex commercial litigation, including class action lawsuits and real estate litigation. He also represents court-appointed receivers throughout the United States. In addition, Walton practices in the creditors' rights area and has experience representing financial institutions, secured and unsecured creditors, and equipment lessors in workouts, bankruptcy, and litigation. He has represented clients in state and federal courts throughout Colorado and Wyoming in complex commercial disputes and has defended businesses against putative class actions.
