SNELL & WILMER ATTORNEY PATRICIA BRUM JOINS INNER-CITY ARTS BOARD

LOS ANGELES (April 30, 2020) – Snell & Wilmer is pleased to announce that Los Angeles attorney Patricia Brum has joined the Board for Inner-City Arts.

Founded in 1989, Inner-City Arts offers a safe, creative space in Los Angeles where more than 200,000 children have been invited to create and explore. Inner-City Arts provides quality arts instruction for students from underserved communities, integrated arts workshops for educators, and programming designed for the community through The Rosenthal Theater. Their mission is to engage young people in the creative process to shape a society of creative, confident and collaborative individuals.

“Our office is excited to strengthen our relationship with Inner-City Arts and the downtown Los Angeles arts community,” said Cary Jones, managing partner of Snell & Wilmer’s Los Angeles office. “Our attorneys and staff contribute their time and services to support the thriving arts community, and Patty’s appointment to the Inner-City Arts Board is the latest example of how we are doing our part to support local art.”

Brum, a Brazilian native, has experience representing Latin American and American companies (both large and small) in their international business dealings. She has worked with over 200 companies in the building materials and construction supply market, including importers, distributors and fabricators. Brum also focuses her practice on litigation and non-litigation matters for homeowners’ associations (HOAs) and HOA board members.

Before becoming a lawyer, Brum worked with a variety of organizations for more than 15 years as an international trade specialist. Having previously resided in both Mexico and Argentina, Brum has a deep understanding of the legal system and business customs of these countries, using her unique perspective to help her Latin American clients navigate the legal system and business world in the United States. Brum is fluent in Portuguese and Spanish and she is a member of the Brazil California Chamber of Commerce.

Brum is also a member of the Community Association Institute (CAI) - Greater Los Angeles Chapter and of the Publication Committee of Focus Magazine, a quarterly publication for homeowner’s association and board members, and has written several articles relating to HOA law. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the University of Southern California’s Lambda LGBT Alumni Association.

“I am honored to be selected as a member of the Inner-City Arts Board,” said Brum. “I hope to help the organization realize their vision of growing a community that honors creativity and values the artistic education of young people.”

Brum completed her undergraduate degree in International Relations at the Universidad de Brasilia. She completed her MBA at the University of Southern California and her J.D. at Southwestern University School of Law.
