“This move reflects Snell & Wilmer's commitment to the community and our dedication to clients in San Diego,” Morton said. “By significantly increasing our office size, we are setting ourselves up for continued growth in the years to come.”

“Jeff and I are immensely proud of the foundation we've helped build for the firm in San Diego,” added Hafén. “This new space will allow us to further our mission of recruiting the most talented, business-focused lawyers to help our clients navigate complex legal and business challenges. We are working diligently to grow by the addition of high-quality individuals who have a solid reputation of providing sophisticated, high-quality services and are focusing on expanding our services to include technology transactions, commercial litigation with an emphasis on trust and estates litigation, among other areas.”
