Leadership Las Vegas empowers recognized, senior-level leaders with additional knowledge, skills and relationships to advance and deepen their community impact. Through lectures, discussions, on-site visits, simulations, projects and other leadership development activities, Leadership Las Vegas class members receive in-depth exposure to the critical issues facing Southern Nevada and are challenged to apply their talents toward improving the community. The members were selected through a competitive and highly selective application and interview process.

“It was an absolute honor to be part of the Leadership Las Vegas Class of 2021,” said Gilbert. “I look forward to applying the lessons, insights and experiences of the past year and collaborating with my classmates to improve our Southern Nevada community.”

Gilbert is an associate in the firm’s corporate and securities group. She previously served as a development officer for the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) Foundation. Prior to that, she worked for U.S. Senator Harry Reid and the Peace Corps. Gilbert obtained her J.D. from the UNLV William S.
