Main Bio

David Dubin's practice is concentrated in intellectual property law, including strategic intellectual property counseling, intellectual property transactions, and trademark prosecution. He regularly assists clients with all aspects of the clearance, prosecution, and enforcement of trademarks and copyrights. Specifically, David represents clients across a broad range of fields in trademark, trade secret and copyright, including: entertainment, telecommunications, consumer products, technology, apparel and food and beverage. He advises clients concerning their intellectual property, non-compete, and non-solicitation intellectual property policies and agreements. David also handles various aspects of other transactional and commercial matters concerning intellectual property, including trademark licenses and consent agreements.

Prior to joining the firm, David was an examining attorney with the United States Patent & Trademark Office (USPTO), where he extensively evaluated trademarks and service marks for compliance with the Trademark Act and rendered Office decisions on procedural and statutory issues. At the USPTO, all of David's argued ex parte appeals before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board and the U.S. Court of Appeals were upheld. David also provided training and review of all work product for experienced and newly hired examining attorneys while serving as a mentor.

David is only licensed to practice in Virginia.
