Main Bio

Julie Kelly focuses her practice in the areas of complex estate and wealth preservation planning, probate and trust administration, fiduciary law, business succession planning, and gift and income taxation as it relates to estates, trusts and individual beneficiaries.

Julie's clients include commercial real estate investors, business owners, physicians, lawyers, executives and farmers. She particularly enjoys advising families regarding inter-generational planning strategies to encourage the smooth transition of wealth, whether it be comprised of the family business, commercial real estate, or the family farm, from one generation to the next.

Representative Experience

- Provided estate planning counsel to dozens of high net-worth clients regarding advanced planning vehicles such as intentionally defective grantor trusts, irrevocable life insurance trusts and charitable trusts
- Advised $150+ million real estate developer regarding the establishment of a private foundation
- Modified numerous poorly drafted trusts via nonjudicial settlement agreement and judicial instruction
- Counseled beneficiaries of contested estates regarding their beneficial interests and rights
- Assisted in the tax-efficient transfer of a multi-million-dollar company to successive generations
- Advised dozens of trustees and personal representatives in complex estate and trust administrations subject to federal and state estate tax
