Main Bio

Stewart Peay's practice is focused in general commercial litigation, including construction litigation, real estate and fraud related litigation, toxic tort defense and state procurement issues.

General Commercial Litigation Stewart has represented numerous clients in commercial disputes. This includes representing clients in numerous breach of contract, corporate governance, intellectual property and insurance coverage disputes. He has also represented numerous landlords in unlawful detainer and other lessor/lessee disputes.

Trade Secret Litigation Stewart has represented companies in trade secret and unfair competition litigation. This includes representing a cutting edge medical products company that allegedly stole trade secrets and competed in violation of a do not compete agreement. He has also represented manufacturers and product developers in the health food and nutraceutical space against claims of trade misappropriation and breach of non-compete agreements. Stewart has represented these clients in Federal Court in Utah and Arizona.

Construction Litigation Stewart has represented and obtained positive outcomes for commercial owners, contractors and architects in disputes dealing with multi-million construction projects. These cases have included breach of contract, change order dispute, cardinal change, negligence, cumulative impact and delay claims, among others.

Real Estate and Fraud Related Litigation Stewart has represented and obtained positive outcomes for companies and professionals involved in the real estate and development industry that have been accused of fraud or breach of contract.

Products Liability Defense Stewart has represented numerous manufactures and land owners against claims related to asbestos exposure.

Stewart served as an officer in the Utah National Guard for 12 years. His service included a one year tour in Baghdad with the Iraq Survey Group during the Iraq War.
